On September 1st 1980 CAMEL joined forces with Sky Production Team Tony Clark and Haydyn Bendall. In Studio 3 of Abbey Road they recorded the ninth addition to CAMEL's repertoire: NUDE.

A band that has taken advantage of changes both past and present, CAMEL have expanded even further with NUDE.

Before entering the studio, Kit and Jan departed briefly to pursue personal projects. Tony then suggested Duncan Mackay — who had previously left 10CC for a solo career—and was available to lend an expert hand in the making of NUDE. Mel Collins produced his usual brilliance now natural to the overall sound of CAMEL and Andrew and Andy have maintained the strength of the unit with the rhythmic compliment of Colin Bass yet again.

With the industry uncertain of direction, CAMEL have spent 1980 concentrating on their greatest asset — melody and imagination. NUDE has risen to the occasion and CAMEL break 1981 with a world tour (for which Kit and Jan have returned) to provide a live outlet for communication between the CAMELS and the listeners. Ultimately, touring is what music is all about and CAMEL wish you a Happy NUDE Year.
